Strategic Approaches for Engaging Religious Leaders in Family Planning in Senegal

ISLAM AND BIRTH SPACING: THE ARGUMENTAIRE

The Argumentaire (islamique sur l’Espacement des Naissances (Islamic Arguments of Birth Spacing) is a local work of family planning author by two Senegalese experts, Imam El Hadj Mouhataf Gueye, the current president of the Association of Imams and Ulama of Senegal is a widely respected scholar on Islamic recognized for his knowledge of Islamic Jurisprudence. He was a founding member of the Network on Islam and Population, where he served as its first president. His coauthor is Imam Mouisammadou Kane, the current Imam Rabbi of the Mosque of Kaolack and recognized expert on family planning in Senegal.

What differentiates this document from previous argumentaires is that it is a document that addresses traditional methods of family planning in Senegal and their limits, as well as contrasting the positions on family planning in Senegal, citing the arguments of those who are in favor, those who are against, and those favorable to the principle but opposed to the methods. It provides recommendations tailored to the Senegalese context for promoting family planning in Senegal.

Today, this document is recognized for its authenticity and serves as a reference. It has been widely distributed in Senegal, as well as in the sub-region during CRSD’s exchange visits within Ouagadougou Partnership countries. It serves as the principal tool used by Muslim CRSD members in training workshops and other events on family planning in Senegal.

ISLAM AND FAMILY PLANNING BY THE NUMBERS

What do Senegalese say about religion and family planning?

I was there for a situation where a religious leader acted as a mediator so that a husband would let his wife practice family planning. It just happened that the religious leader came to the house and found the husband and wife arguing about the question. So, he discussed with them and gave the wife advice on the behavior she should have toward her husband, but he also addressed the husband and let him know that his wife want to practice family planning to help him to spend less money. He told him to let her practice family planning. – Woman, Thiès

Without good health, no one is able to respect God’s recommendations as required. If birth limitation seeks to keep women in good health and allow the infant to breastfeed for two years as recommended by Islam, there cannot be differences of opinion among religious leaders. – Imam, Kédougou

Religious leaders must be informed because people go to see them in order to know if planning is permitted in Islam or not. And if they say no based on their simple experiences relating to what they have learned? It is time, in my opinion, for there to be a harmonization in order to silence the divergences that exist in interpreting the Qur’an with respect to family planning. This would allow laymen to have the correct information. – Man, Thiès

The Church advocates for responsible sexuality; […] it benefits no one to bring children into this world without being able to feed them or educate them. – Abbé, Sédiou

WOMEN’S ACTIVITIES

CRSD

Founded in July 2014, the Cadre des religieux pour la Santé et le Développement (Group of Religious Leaders for Health and Development, CRSD) is an interfaith association that brings together the religious families (of the Soft orders), the Islamic associations, and the Catholic and Lutheran churches of Senegal.

CRSD aims to:
– Promote dialogue between Senegal’s religious families/communities to further the country’s development;
– Promote all actions that seek to improve maternal and infant health in Senegal, in collaboration with the Ministry of Health and Social Action;
– Provide social aid to the population, particularly for the most vulnerable;
– Take action to build peace and strengthen social cohesion in the country.
